EASY PREY

By Catherine Lo (YA F Lo)

345 pages 2018 Mystery Fiction

Mouse, Drew and Jenna have been classmates for years and for three people who aren't necessarily friends, they have a lot of history. When a teacher's 'private' photos go viral online, Mouse, Drew and Jenna become the prime suspects. All deny culpability but it seems someone is leaking information and they might be at the center of a set up. (Grades 9 & up)

LITTLE WHITE LIES

By Jennifer Lynn Barnes (YA F Barn)

390 pages 2018 Mystery Fiction

Eighteen-year-old Sawyer Taft never expected her estranged grandmother to suddenly show up at the small apartment she shares with her mom and offer her $500,000. The catch: Sawyer must participate in and complete the debutante season and live with her wealthy grandmother for the nine month duration. Intrigued by the prospect of maybe discovering who her biological father is, Sawyer accepts, and is thrust into a life of decorum and riches. Her father's identity isn't the only secret her family is hiding; soon Sawyer is drawn into a complicated plot involving a hit and run, kidnapping, and theft. Her relationship with her mother also suffers as Sawyer is pulled deeper into the family. Mystery, intrigue, and a touch of humor make this a fun and quick read! (Grades 9 & up)

PANDEMIC: HOW CLIMATE, THE ENVIRONMENT, AND SUPERBUGS INCREASE THE RISK

By Connie Goldsmith (YA 614.4 Gold)

136 pages 2019 Nonfiction

Have you ever wondered when the next pandemic like the Plague or Smallpox is going to happen? What bacteria or virus will cause the next outbreak? Can we stop it from happening? These questions and more are answered in Pandemic. Each chapter visits a different bacteria or virus and discusses history as a way to predict the future. Learn how epidemiologists predict, contain and control the spread of disease on a global scale and see how human activities and actions can have an impact on public health crises. (Grades 7 & up)

THANOS: TITAN CONSUMED

By Barry Lyga (YA F Lyga)

406 pages 2018 Science Fiction

As Thanos emerged as the villain that not even the Mighty Avengers could defeat during the events of Infinity War he still has a past that shaped him. Born on the doomed planet of Titan to A'lars and his absent mother Sui-San, he is a shock to his people. His purple hue is viewed as a representation of death. He was isolated from society and poked and prodded as a deviant. All of the events in the book shape Thanos, The Black Order, and his children, Gamora and Nebula, in the characters seen in the Marvel Universe. (Grades 8 & up)

THE HATE U GIVE

By Angie Thomas (YA F Thom)

444 pages 2017 Realistic Fiction

The Hate U Give is told from the point of view of Starr Carter. Starr lives in a poor African-American neighborhood with her two brothers and her parents. She goes to a private high school in a wealthy area. When Starr goes to high school, she almost leads a different life, goofing off with her boyfriend and going to basketball practice with her friends. The story begins after one of Starr's childhood best friend is shot by a policeman after being pulled over. After the shooting the town is struck by grief and is seeking change. The story will take you on a journey with Starr as she deals with the aftermath of the shooting and finds her voice. Reviewed by TAB member Vismaya M. (Grades 8 & up)
